EVERY WOMAN

has the ambition to be the owner of a home, and every right thinking couple will see to it that it shall come in due time. It is impossible for a wage earner to lay by sufficient from his income to pay cash down for a home, but with a strong institution, such as ours, to back up the efforts of worthy people, there can be no doubt of success.

The plan is simple, just open an account with us, no matter how small, then add something each pay day, before long you will be able to secure the home that you want. Now, is not such an accomplishment worthy the trial, and do not the results compensate for all the self-denial. The Savings Bank is the place to line up with, the Savings Bank is the servant of the people, and the money in the Savings Bank is the only sure thing you can count on in time of need.

GRANDS SEE MAN
COMING SUICIDE

Jumps Into Dock After Making
Careful Preparations, as Folk Looked On.

In full view of several loungers on the wharf, Frank Pegram, colored, twenty-eight years old, of 1810 East Broad Street, walked down to the edge of the City Dock, between Seventeenth and Eighteenth streets, yesterday afternoon, and, putting it carefully aside, turned into the water, and was drowned before help could reach him. The reason for the man's suicide is not known, but it is thought that he was under the influence of drink.

He had been looking queerly all day, according to negroes living in the house with him at 1810 East Broad Street, and toward the end of the afternoon he walked out into the crowd of idlers before the dock, asked them all to pray for him, and said he was going to jump into the water. The negroes treated his remarks as a joke, and thought no more of it until news of his suicide was spread.

Charles Toring, of 1525 Maury street, South Richmond, was standing on the dock when Pegram came down to the water's edge to end his life, and was a witness of the whole affair. Before Toring realized the man's intention, Pegram had jumped into the canal and disappeared below the surface of the water. Several negroes came running to the scene, but the negro never appeared. The body was not recovered until it was found by the police.

SOUTH CAROLINA
BANKERS ASSOCIATION

Asheville, N. C., July 12.—With the election of officers and action on a number of important reports, the South Carolina Bankers' Association, which has been in session at Lake Towaxway, yesterday and to-day, adjourned late this afternoon. Invitations from several cities were received asking for the 1914 convention, but this question was left to the executive committee.

Bright Williamson was elected president of the association; Charles Shannon, of Camden, S. C., was elected vice-president; Lee G. Hightower, of Charleston, S. C., was re-elected secretary and treasurer.

Addresses were made by Charles H. Davis, of Petersburg, Va., and W. B. Stevenson, of Charleston, S. C. Both the addresses were well received. The association went on record as favoring the erection of the proposed harbor at the mouth of the Savannah river, and as favoring the establishment of some sort of credit system for the aid of farmers in the State.

NOTABLE VISITOR

Lord Chancellor of England Coming to This Country.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.] London, July 12.—Referring to Lord Haldane's forthcoming visit to the United States, the official Law Journal says:

During the absence of the Lord Chancellor from England, when he will speak before the American Bar Association and at the University of Chicago, it is announced, will be placed in the hands of a commission. Lord Haldane will be the first Lord Chancellor to leave England on an official visit since Cardinal Wolsey went on his famous mission to France.

Samuel Untermyer was in London during the early part of the week and had several talks with Lord Haldane concerning his visit, and it is probable that Mr. Untermyer will accompany the Lord Chancellor on his trip.

TROUBLE FOLLOWS
COLORED SHOOTING

White Boy Wounds Negro, and Officers Threatened When Making Arrest.

With a bullet lodged in his left breast, just below the heart, Scott Haskins, colored, twenty-one years old, was brought here for treatment last night, and now lies in the City Hospital in a precarious condition. The wound, it is claimed, was accidentally inflicted by Edward Saunders, eighteen years old, of Washington, who was shooting at birds with a rifle on the farm of his uncle, Edith Crittenden, at Strawberry Plains, Henrico County.

Saunders was taken into custody a few hours later by Special Officer William Taylor, who was called to the scene by the county authorities, had great difficulty in making the arrest, and was in danger of being injured. When Officer Taylor took the youth into custody, he was attacked by a companion of the boy, and a neighborhood fight broke out. The details of the shooting were meagre, and the county police, working on the information furnished by the boy, had great difficulty in getting information. The affair occurred twenty-two miles from the city, and the boy was turned over to the City Hospital, an effort was made to extract the ball, but the weakened condition of the patient made an operation out of the question. While his wound is serious, it is not necessarily fatal, and the negro has an excellent chance of recovery.

If the shooting, as it is claimed, was accidental, it is claimed, was accidental, and the boy was charged at a loss to understand why there should have been any resistance when young Saunders was arrested. When Officer Taylor took the youth into custody, he was attacked by a companion of the boy, and a neighborhood fight broke out. The details of the shooting were meagre, and the county police, working on the information furnished by the boy, had great difficulty in getting information. MURDER BOARD
BRITISH VESSEL

Three Members of Crew Perhaps Fatally Hurt in Attack by Chinese.

Newport News, Va., July 12.—Fourteen Chinamen, sailors and firemen on the British steamship Norman March, bound from New Orleans to Hamburg, mutinied Thursday about 180 miles off this port, and attacked the ship's officers with knives, crowbars, hatch bars and other weapons. The chief engineer, third engineer and boatswain are lying near death as the result of the fight that followed, and the second mate and one Chinaman also are in a serious condition.

Upon the arrival of the vessel in this port late this afternoon, the Chinamen were placed under arrest by action of the immigration authorities. They are being held under $7,000 bail for extradition.

Enraged because one of their number was put in irons for some minor offense, the Chinese attacked the third engineer. A spanner wielded by one of the mutineers struck him on the back of the head, laying him prostrate. The noise of the attack attracted the other officers from dinner. Hurrying to the engine room, they were met by a concerted attack on the part of the Chinese. Knives, hatch bars and other weapons were used with telling effect, the chief engineer and boatswain falling before blows of the sailors. One Chinaman was felled to the deck by a blow of the captain's fist. The officers were reinforced by sailors, and overcame the mutinous Chinamen.

Real Estate Man Arrested.

Robert Bailey, a real estate agent, was arrested last night at Seventh and Broad Streets by Traffic Officer Bradley for refusing to move on when ordered by the policeman. Bailey denied that his presence on the corner was in defiance of the city ordinance. He was bailed at once.

Probationer Falls Again.

Twenty-four hours after he was released from the City Jail for probation by Judge D. C. Richardson, James Bailey, thirty-seven years old, was arrested at the Main Street Station by Officer Polkes on the charge of being drunk and a vagrant. Bradley was arrested by Judge Richardson on the promise that he would leave the city by 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

CHANGES
HOUSE FINANCE COMMITTEE

Retirement of Bowman Leaves
House Finance Committee
Without Chairman.

SENATE TO SHAPE BUDGET

Its Finance Committee to Meet
Here Thirty Days Before Session Opens.

The serious illness and retirement from public life of Colonel A. M. Bowman, of Salem, will not only precipitate a probable contest for the position of chairman of the House Finance Committee, but unless some one grasps the situation firmly, may greatly handicap the next session of the General Assembly in the preparation of the appropriation bill. Colonel Bowman has for years been the "watchdog of the treasury," his familiarity with State finances enabling him to guide the appropriation bill through the troubled waters of local attacks and popular opposition with unusual skill. He was first elected to the House in 1901, and has been chairman of the House Finance Committee since 1906.

Former State Senator George B. Kezell, of Rockingham County, who was for some years chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, is now a candidate for the House from Rockingham County, and if elected, will almost certainly be assigned to the House Finance Committee.

Only three members of the old House Finance Committee return without opposition. They are Harry H. Houston, of Hampton; Richard L. Brewer, Jr., of Nansemond; and George G. Kezell, of Warren. Members of the old committee who have opposition in their campaigns for re-election are Captain W. W. Baker, of Chesterfield; T. L. Tate, of Pulaski; and K. E. Spessard, of Craig.

Members of the old committee who will not return to the session of 1914 are Colonel A. M. Bowman, of Roanoke; Tipton D. Jennings, of Lynchburg; J. Templeton, of Augusta; W. H. Ewing, of Prince Edward; W. S. Brown, of Danville; Colonel John S. Harwood, of Richmond; W. G. Parker, of Portsmouth; John S. White, of Albemarle; and J. H. Whitely, of Smyth.

Notwithstanding every effort that the old war horses have made to expedite business, it has almost invariably happened that the appropriation bill has been reported in its final shape on the last night of the session, and has been jammed through almost without consideration, and sometimes by a personal solicitation of the conferees. Last session conditions were somewhat better. The Senate being a hold-over body, and its committee standing, as heretofore, the House Finance Committee, in its resolution instructing the Finance Committee to meet in Richmond thirty days before the next session, had the purpose of formulating an appropriation bill. The resolution provides that the bill shall be reported to the Senate on the second day of the session, and shall be made a special order for consideration.

To what extent the House will accept a bill prepared by a Senate committee in advance of the actual assembling of the Legislature, remains to be seen.

Turned Defect Into Balance. In the Legislature of 1903 Colonel Bowman was called home in the closing days of the session by illness in his family. Senator Kezell, then chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, was called home by illness. Mr. Kezell was described as "normal," and a bill got through on the final night of the session pledging the State to the establishment of three new normal schools, and making largely increased appropriations in other directions, including some generous salary increases. One of the immediate results of that bill was an empty State treasury, and what afterwards became known as the "Swanwick deficit." In 1910 and 1912 members of the General Assembly have been carefully warned that the treasury was empty. Colonel Bowman's close scrutiny of the appropriation bills, and State Auditor C. Lee Moore's vigorous efforts to shame the people of Virginia into making honest tax returns have together changed the "deficit" into a fairly healthy condition, and the treasury will close the present fiscal year with a balance. Some officials think this fact should be suppressed until the General Assembly has adjourned, so that every member may have pet projects for launching a few more expensive institutions in his own county. Preparation of the State's appropriation bill is a easier task in a hard time year, when there is just so much money and certain things must be provided for, than it is when the State starts out with a balance, and the Legislature is composed of cheerleaders who are willing to go as far as the chairman of the Finance Committee will let them.

ARREST LAWYER
ON CHIEF'S ORDER

Isador Schapiro Resented Health
Inspector's Testimony in Court.

Following his conviction in Police Court for maintaining a filthy backyard on the premises of 1813-1815 East Grace Street, on the complaint of health officials, Isador Schapiro, an attorney at law, engaged yesterday in a heated war of words with Health Inspector William Moseley in the corridor just off Justice Crutchfield's courtroom, and was arrested by Officer Smallwood on the charge of disorderly conduct. He was immediately bailed for his appearance in Police Court to-morrow morning.

Schapiro, who is the owner of the property at 1813-1815 East Grace Street, was fined $5 in Police Court yesterday morning by Justice Crutchfield, when Inspector Moseley testified that the lawyer had been several times warned by health authorities to clean up the rear yards of the houses owned by him, and had failed to take notice of the order. The lawyer, who testified warmly on the stand that his property was in good condition, took exception to the court's decision and noted an appeal.

Later he met Inspector Moseley as the two were leaving the courtroom and a heated dispute, where their words were plainly audible, was declared vehemently that he did not intend to do anything for his property until he had been ordered to do so by the court.

The disturbance attracted Major Werner and a handful of policemen from the courtroom, and Schapiro was hauled off to the station by John's bar. The justice, however, did not handle the case in such an impromptu manner, and told Major Werner to order the lawyer's arrest if he desired to have him released for the time being, but later in the day the Chief of Police swore out a warrant for his arrest, and had Officer Smallwood serve it.

DROKEN NEGRO IN BY CAR

Motorman and Conductor Are Arrested and Promptly Released on Bond.

CLEARLY FAULT OF VICTIM

Ran in Front of Oakwood Car and Hit Before It Could Be Stopped.

An unidentified negro, between thirty and forty years old, was struck and instantly killed last night at 10:15 o'clock in West Cary Street, between Madison and Jefferson Streets, by a westbound Oakwood and Main Street car of the Virginia Railway and Power Company, in charge of Motorman H. H. Stilson, of 1410 Powhatan Street, South Richmond. Those who witnessed the accident said that the negro was very drunk and had staggered out of the shadows and had run tracks squarely in front of the approaching car. The motorman, Stilson, requires, Motorman Stilson and Conductor E. R. Foster, arrested on the charge of murder and taken to the Second Police Station by Policemen Thurman. They were immediately bailed by C. E. Johnson, of the claim office of the company. The motorman is absolved from blame by a half dozen persons who actually saw the accident, and is said to have made every possible effort to avoid the victim when he saw the drunken negro step into the pathway of his car.

Many People Saw It. The accident, which occurred almost directly in front of the new dormitory of the Young Women's Christian Association, was witnessed by ten or twelve persons who were sitting on the porch of the building. James Cooper, colored, of 13 West Canal Street, who had been with the unidentified negro a few seconds before the accident, the police learned that the dead man was very much under the influence of liquor. A whiskey bottle in his trousers pocket was shattered when the car struck him. Cooper says that just a few moments before the accident the negro had offered him 10 cents to take him to 513 North First Street. Inqually made last night at that number by Bicycle Officer J. J. Traynor disclosed the information that the man did not live there.

The victim of the accident is of short, slender build, with light tan skin and a gray mustache. He was about five feet, five inches tall and weighed about 140 pounds. He wore dark blue clothing, a light shirt, black shoes and a black soft hat. His body was turned over by the police to A. D. Price, and the case is being held pending a full investigation to be made this morning by Coroner Taylor.

Struck in Stomach. According to eyewitnesses of the accident, Stilson's car was proceeding west on Cary Street at a reasonable rate of speed, when the negro, who was running in front of the car, suddenly lurched on the track directly in the path of the approaching car. The full force of the beam caught him in the pit of the stomach. He was hurled partially clear of the car, but when Stilson came to a halt, he was pinned under the rear trucks by his left leg.

The body was carried to the hospital and placed in a casket. The body was being dragged from beneath the wheels of the motorman's sight by deep shadows thrown by trees, suddenly lurched on the track directly in the path of the approaching car. The full force of the beam caught him in the pit of the stomach. He was hurled partially clear of the car, but when Stilson came to a halt, he was pinned under the rear trucks by his left leg.

GIRL "ELEVATOR BOY"

Miss Jessie A. Vachon Appointed by Burleson.

Washington, July 12.—Postmaster-General Burleson today appointed Miss Jessie A. Vachon as official "elevator boy" of the Federal building at Belknap, Wash. Her appointment followed a protest from Senator Poinsett against the refusal of the department to confirm her temporary appointment.

The Washington Senator pointed out that Miss Vachon was a woman, and fully capable of performing the duties of the position, and that as Washington, D. C., is a city of women, it was men voters demanded representation in office.

SCHOONER JOSEPHINE
ALMOST TOTAL LOSS

Beaufort, N. C., July 12.—The schooner Josephine, from Savannah, July 5, for New York, which stranded yesterday off Portmouth Beach, has been raised. The cargo of lumber is valued at $18,000. Part of it can be saved. The schooner to-day mentioned about 75,000 feet of lumber from her deck load, almost all of which was saved. The schooner was towed to the wrecking tug Rescue, and owing to a continuous southwest gale no work could be done on the wreck. Wreckers will strip the vessel when the weather moderates.

WINDS WILD RAGE
AGAINST DEATH

Ambulance Surgeon Ignores

TRIED TO KILL HIMSELF

Snead Delivered to Hospital and Plunged Into Ice Cold
Bath in Time.

Depressed by the loss of his job and constant indulgence in drink, W. B. Snead, forty-five years old, of 717 McDonough Street, South Richmond, told his wife that he was going to end his life, and then drank two ounces of laudanum yesterday afternoon about 6 o'clock in his home. After a record-breaking dash in the city ambulance and one of his ranks, to the City Hospital, Snead's life was saved by the most heroic measures. Late last night physicians at the hospital reported that Snead was out of danger and in a fair way to recover.

Snead escaped death by only the narrow margin. When his wife understood that he had actually taken poison, she telephoned for the city ambulance, but by the time ambulance Surgeon M. F. Torregrosa reached the McDonough Street house, Snead was on the verge of falling into a fatal sleep. Although he had changed his mind about wishing to die, the surgeon to save him, Snead refused to allow Dr. Torregrosa to use a stomach pump on him, and very nearly died. Although he had changed his mind about wishing to die, the surgeon to save him, Snead refused to allow Dr. Torregrosa to use a stomach pump on him, and very nearly died.

Hard Work in Ambulance. Seeing that he would be unable to fight off death with the slender resources of his command, Dr. Torregrosa placed Snead in the automobile ambulance and told Chauffeur Drake to make all possible speed for the City Hospital. The driver put on all the power stored in the big machine, but was not swift enough to beat the overpowering influence of the poison. All through the race to the hospital, Snead begged to be allowed to go to sleep, and could hardly hold his head up. Dr. Torregrosa, however, kept him awake by slapping him smartly in the face time and time again, and would have died of the complaints of the patient.

The ambulance surgeon was successful in keeping Snead awake by this means until the City Hospital was reached. The hospital physicians found that nothing but the stomach pump would relieve Snead's system of the drug by that time, and forced the man to stand the heroic treatment. At one time, it was necessary to plunge Snead into a bathtub of ice water in order to prevent him from falling asleep.

Snead has one small daughter. He told his wife yesterday afternoon that he was tired of living, and was going out to get enough laudanum to bring on death. She laughed at him, and said no drug store would sell him a sufficient quantity to kill him, but Snead went to two stores, buying 10 cents' worth of the drug at each, and thus securing the two ounces which would have ended his life but for the efforts of the City Hospital surgeons.

In Police Court. Isador Schapiro, an attorney at law, was fined $5 in Police Court yesterday morning by Justice Crutchfield for keeping a filthy backyard on the premises of 1813-1815 East Grace Street. An appeal was noted. The complaint was made by Inspector Moseley, of the Health Department, who said that Schapiro had curiously refused to comply with the "clean-up order."

Sam Coker, colored, charged with stabbing Junius Kelly in a row on July 4, was sent to the grand jury. Dr. Hoge Qualifies. Dr. Hoge qualified yesterday before City Clerk Ben T. Hoge as a member of the Board of Health, having recently been re-elected by a joint session of the City Council for a number of years. Dr. Hoge has been a member of the Board of Health since its reorganization in 1905.

OFFICERS ESCAPE IN FIGHT WITH GUNMENRICHMOND MAN
GUEST OF HONOR

Same Gang That Broke Loose in Jackson Ward on July 4 on Rampage Again.

A running pistol battle between Bicycle Officers J. J. Traynor and T. E. Whitlow, on one side, and a gang of "Hells Half Acres" negroes was waged last night about 9 o'clock in Jackson Ward, in which eight revolver shots were exchanged and one negro gunman, it is thought, wounded. This is the second battle between officers of the Second Police Station and the same gang within ten days. Both the officers escaped the flying bullets, although they were standing in the center of St. James Street under an arc lamp and offered good targets, but Traynor thinks at least one of their bullets struck a man in a notorious negro gunman, Robert Dandridge. The fight took place at the foot of St. James Street, after the two police officers had broken up a crap game which was being played in the middle of the street and had pursued five negroes. St. James Street ends at the Seaboard Air Line Railway tracks, which are sunk about fifteen feet below the surface of the street, and the craphooters made their escape by scrambling down the embankment and disappearing among the shanties.

The officers did not attempt to follow the fugitives down the embankment, and were standing on top of the silhouettes of the arc lamp behind them, when a negro said to Robert Dandridge, suddenly appeared on the railway track sixty feet away and blazed away with a revolver. Before Traynor and Whitlow could draw and return the fire, the gunmen fled out of range along the track and disappeared from the officers' view, going in the direction of the city hall.

With the intention of cutting off his retreat, the officers ran up St. James Street to Perry Street, pistols in hand, and stood at the intersection of the streets waiting for Dandridge to appear. The negro, with a companion, Garing, suddenly made known his presence in Perry Street, when his pistol bursted at the two officers from a distance of only about thirty feet. As he fled, Traynor and Whitlow opened fire, each sending three bullets after him. Although the fugitive was not halted, the officers believe that at least one of their bullets found the mark.

The gang encountered by Traynor and Whitlow is believed by the police to be the same that engaged in a pistol battle with Bicycle Officer Gering on the night of July 4 in St. James Street. Patrolmen Galbraith and Willis recently had trouble with the same outfit and arrested one nineteen-year-old negro youth at St. James and Hall Streets Friday night. The police of the Second District are now thoroughly aroused by the daring of this gang, and have vowed to round up the finish off the entire crowd. A warrant was issued for the arrest of Dandridge, and officers trailed through Jackson Ward last night in a futile search for him.

The police of the Second District are now thoroughly aroused by the daring of this gang, and have vowed to round up the finish off the entire crowd.
